

Privacy Policy

Cancer Services of Northeast Indiana (CSNI) respects the privacy of its clients, staff, volunteers, and donors.

During its normal business transactions, CSNI does collect information including name, address, telephone number, fax number, e-mail address, billing information, and family history/information. CSNI does not sell this information to other organizations or businesses for solicitation purposes.

Occasionally CSNI will use this information for its own research and fundraising campaigns. However, individuals or organizations may remove their information from future solicitations or mailings by contacting CSNI's Development Department at (260) 484-3560.

If you would like to review information which CSNI may have collected concerning you and your business, please contact the organization at the above phone numbers. You may contact or update this information at any time.
